Council July 22 Worksession Explores Some Ethical Issues

by Thomas X. White

During the past year the Greenbelt City Council has been discussing potential ethical issues relating to service on various community boards and committees by council members. While their primary focus has been the unique relationship between council and the board of Greenbelt Access Television, Inc. (GATE), discussion has included all such relationships, including participation by Greenbelt staff on various boards and committees.

Armed with legal opinions from the city solicitor and staff input, council discussion at its July 22 worksession was intended to lead to new city policies governing situations where council or staff served on boards and committees receiving financial benefits (actual funding or in-kind services) from the city. The backdrop for such discussions included not only actual receipt of city funds and services but also the perception by citizens regarding the importance of such relationships.

In an October 25, 2012, letter to City Manager Michael McLaughlin, City Solicitor Robert Manzi noted provisions of ethics laws of both the city and Maryland that would apply generally to city officials participating on boards of entities receiving funds from the city. His letter admitted that while neither of the provisions were specific, he believed there was enough intent to state that “the official should recuse themselves [sic] from any vote on any budgeted amount given to an organization where (they) are either a member, a member of the board or in some official position.”

Five members of council attended the worksession, with Councilmembers Silke Pope and Leta Mach away. Also attending were McLaughlin and Assistant City Manager David Moran.

GATE

As the issue has developed over the past year or so, the situation at GATE was the principal focus. Since GATE was established under the auspices of the city in December 1986, it has operated under Articles of Incorporation and bylaws developed by a city committee formed specifically for that purpose. Manzi had assisted the committee in drafting the charter and bylaws, both still intact after nearly 27 years of operation.

Article six of the Articles of Incorporation under “Board of Directors,” section (a) states: “There shall be nine (9) voting Directors of the Corporation, one (1) of whom shall be appointed by the Greenbelt City Council.” Similarly, Article IV of the GATE bylaws under section 2, states: “The number of Directors of the Corporation is initially set at nine (9), eight (8) directors elected by the membership and one director appointed by the City Council”

Currently Councilmember Konrad Herling serves as council’s representative on the GATE board. At the worksession he

by Cindy Henneberger

The Greenbelt City Council had its annual stakeholder meeting with Greenbelt Access Television, Inc. (GATE) on July 17, the same day that 10 new computers arrived at the public access station. The equipment is part of GATE’s over $127,000 camera, computer and software upgrade plan.

On the purchase list is a camera that will record at a 4K resolution, delivering images at four times the resolution of today’s 1920 x 1080 high-definition television.

The new camera is key in GATE’s transformation from standard-definition to high-definition technology – and will be teaming up with five other new cameras, 12 new computers in all, plus new software and a new central storage area network capable of holding 24 terabytes of media.

GATE’s Board of Directors knew the access station was in a rapidly changing environment and had the foresight to create a replacement reserve, Board President Bob Zugby told meeting attendees. GATE will also pay for the upgrades with assets and savings it has built up for almost 20 years, said Board Treasurer Thomas White in a subsequent interview.

It was about time, according to GATE production assistant Scott Candey, who said some of the station’s cameras are 15 and 18 years old respectively, older than he and GATE Production Manager Aaron Solomon. Solomon reported approximately three camera failures this year where production footage was not recorded. He said the upgrades will help GATE make a seamless transition into high definition.

Service in Lieu of Rent

Most organizations pay the city for space in the Community Center, but GATE has operated there rent-free since 1996. Greenbelt Intergenerational Volunteer Exchange Service (GIVES), a seniors-oriented work exchange

Campaign Season Opens Aug. 19 For November Council Election

by Kathleen Gallagher

In little more than two weeks, the starting gate will open and both incumbents and challengers will begin the race to be winners at the next city council election on Tuesday, November 5. Candidate packets containing all necessary information and forms for running will be available at City Clerk Cindy Murray’s office in the Municipal Building, 25 Crescent Road, beginning Monday, August 19. Candidates may file to run from then until 5 p.m. on Monday, September 23.

Any “qualified voter” of the city may run for city council. A qualified voter is a city resident who is duly registered to vote with Prince George’s County at a Greenbelt residence address. Since 2009 Greenbelt has had a seven-member council, all of whom are elected at-large for two-year terms: that is, there are no wards or districts in Greenbelt and each voter may vote for up to seven candidates.

No separate contest is held for running to be mayor. Both mayor and mayor pro tem are elected by the city council, which traditionally has chosen for these offices the two candidates who had received the highest and second-highest number of votes, respectively, in the biennial election.

In some years the city election ballot also includes advisory referendum questions to solicit the opinions of voters on various matters. Although no referendum questions have been proposed so far for this year, council has until September 30 to adopt a resolution for that purpose.

Forms, Forms, Forms

To run for office, would-be candidates must fill out the following forms in their entirety and submit them to the city clerk no later than 5 p.m. on September 23:

A nomination petition meeting certain criteria and bearing the signatures of at least 50 registered city voters must be obtained. Each petition page identifies the candidate and candidate’s address of residence, with the notarized signature and residence address of the person circulating the petition. The city clerk verifies the petitions.

An acceptance of nomination form certifies the nominee’s agreement to serve if elected. An affidavit of candidate form provides personal identifying information. These forms also must be notarized.

A financial disclosure statement provides for a declaration of business, investment and real estate interests held by the nominee and close family, as well as

Beltway Plaza Celebrates “Mayhem” Mitchell’s Win

Beltway Plaza Mall hosted a victory celebration on July 28 for Seth “Mayhem” Mitchell who won the WBC International Heavyweight and North American Boxing Organization (NABO) Heavyweight Titles with his unanimous decision on June 22 win over Johnathon Banks at the Barclays Center in Brooklyn, New York. A crowd was on hand to congratulate the champ and chat with him about his recent fight and possible upcoming matches. Mark “Kap” Kapastin, a member of the management team of Beltway Plaza, made a congratulatory toast (with non-alcoholic beverages) and fans received autographs and photos of themselves with Mitchell. Part of Beltway Plaza’s support of Seth Mitchell was his previous inclusion in the Beltway Plaza Wall of Fame, which honors members of the Prince George’s County community and notes their contributions to bettering the community.

Mitchell’s (26-1-1, 19 KO) 12-round decision over Banks was a form of redemption for the up-and-coming heavyweight who was stopped in two rounds by Banks last November. This time Mitchell used a safer, more tactical approach that proved to be a winning approach to the fight.

Letters to the Editor

A Visit from Rep. Steny Hoyer

Congressman Steny H. Hoyer was at the Co-op grocery store last Friday afternoon when I was there and he was buying a whole mess of peppermint patties for a woman to whom he delivers Meals on Wheels.

He came right over to me and I said, “My father was Bob Auerbach, who ran against you a few times? . . .” (Hoyer’s staff and other onlookers chuckled appropriately). “My father passed away.”

He said, “Oh yes, I saw that, I was sorry to hear that.” And put a hand on my shoulder, making good eye contact. Then he added, “He was always very gracious . . . and dedicated to his principles.” We chatted a little more before parting.

Hopi Auerbach

Congressman Steny Hoyer was spotted in the Co-op Supermarket and stopped to chat with Hopi Auerbach.

Clarifying Café Food Service Contract View

I hope this letter will clarify one point made in last week’s letter which Jerry Dancis and I sent in regarding the New Deal Café.

All organizations have a responsibility to perform due diligence and look at all options before a contract is entered into. While the current restaurant management at the Café is doing a good job, negotiating a new agreement should be a comprehensive process. I hope that at the upcoming August 5 meeting the board will be able to reassure the members this is what they are doing in this instance.

Also, the views expressed here and in the previous letter are my own, writing as a member of the Café and do not reflect the opinions of FONDCA (Friends of New Deal Café Arts).

THANKS!

The Greenbelt Pantry thanks all donors for their faithful donations to the pantry.

Special thanks go to Co-op Manager Bob Davis, who continues to provide space in the store for the pantry’s green bin for foodstuffs.

Our thanks to the McCarl Dental Group for their large gifts of oral hygiene supplies. We’re grateful, too, to our anonymous donors of beauty gifts and hygiene supplies.

We could not supply pantry needs without the ongoing support of members of Greenbelt’s houses of worship – Mishkan Torah, the churches and St. Hugh’s church community.

Our heartfelt gratitude to you all – there is no vacation from hunger!

Another Point of View On Café Food Contract

It’s no exaggeration to say the New Deal Café is the heart and soul of Roosevelt Center. The Café occupies this position through the efforts of many individuals but especially through the hard work and dedication of Chef Karim and his wife Maria, the restaurant’s managers. We support Karim and Maria’s continued management of the restaurant at the New Deal Café.

Secret Sauce

Karim and Maria’s Lebanese food, freshly prepared on site, is an attraction in its own right and a unique and valuable addition to the local Greenbelt-College Park-Hyattsville restaurant scene. As restaurant options in our area increase, this unique food will keep people coming to Roosevelt Center. There’s something for everyone – the Café offers many vegetarian, vegan and gluten-free options as well as a children’s menu.

We don’t agree that “the music packs the café” and the food is “not crucial.” (Letter “Changes Considered At New Deal Café” July 25.) We believe the café is the best of all worlds, where the good music and the delicious food support each other in a mutually beneficial relationship. But we also know many people who patronize the café primarily for the food. The restaurant is full for weekday lunch and weekend breakfasts. Carryout does a brisk business and on weekdays, many music patrons choose to purchase food, even though they are not required to. They do so, because the food is great!

Community Living Room

In the five years that the New Deal Café has been under Karim and Maria’s management, the “community living room” has become even more appealing because of the warm and inviting atmosphere that Karim and Maria have worked hard to create, shawarma by shawarma.

The Café hosts many formal and informal community meetings, celebrations and events. Patrons of these events usually purchase food, because the food is great!

Giving Back

We can’t emphasize enough how much the New Deal Café gives back to the community, just by being the proverbial “great, good place.” But Karim and Maria also give back to the community in tangible, measurable ways. They make donations to school fundraisers and donate half the cost of the $10 meal vouchers for the volunteer bartenders, even though the volunteers do not assist the wait staff or kitchen crew.

Perhaps Karim and Maria’s biggest contribution to our community is their hard work and “sweat equity” to build a stable restaurant business that pulled the New Deal Café Cooperative out of its crushing debt. Don’t forget that five years ago, the cafe served food on an irregular schedule and the cooperative was facing bankruptcy.

Since that time, Karim and Maria have paid the rent, the utilities and the WiFi bills. Additionally, they make monthly $1,000 payments to the cooperative that have paid down the cooperative’s debt. What many don’t know is that Karim and Maria also incurred personal debt to renovate and modernize

Doctors Hospital Seeks Front Desk Volunteers

Doctors Community Hospital, 8118 Good Luck Road in Lanham, is seeking volunteers to staff its front desk in four-hour shifts between 7 a.m. and 8 p.m. daily. These volunteers greet and check in visitors, comfort family members, answer telephones and provide hospital campus directions.

agreements and attend a required orientation. The next orientation will be held on Thursday, September 12 from 6 to 8:30 p.m.

In addition to helping, volunteers receive a free daily meal at the hospital cafeteria when they work, access to social and education sessions offered by the hospital, basic health screening and a free flu shot, free parking and an invitation to the annual volunteer recognition event.

Leonie Penney

Leonie Penney died peacefully in her home in Greenbelt on Monday, July 22, 2013, at the age of 95.

Mrs. Penney was born on March 29, 1918, during the final months of World War I in The Hague, the Netherlands. She was the only child of Bernard and Olga Snatager, a working-class Jewish family. Growing up in the Netherlands she earned her master's degree in economics in 1940 from the University of Amsterdam, the first woman in her field to do so.

She survived the Holocaust of World War II by adopting an assumed identity and going underground. In 1948, she emigrated to the United States with her job as senior economist for the World Bank.

She met Walter Penney at the International Student House in Washington, D.C. and they married on October 11, 1952. After raising three children, she took a position as a systems analyst with the Department of Agriculture.

She received a second master's degree in computer sciences from the University of Maryland in 1975. After retiring from the Department of Agriculture in 1983, she established her own home-based database consulting firm, Penney Associates, using a computer she built herself.

Mrs. Penney loved her American hometown of Greenbelt. Throughout the 56 years she lived in Greenbelt, she served the community through her involvement with the Greenbelt Co-operative Nursery School, GIVES, Greenbelt CARES, the swim team, Twin Pines Savings and Loan, the recycling community, the Senior Citizens' Advisory Board, Greenbelt Assistance In Living, Friends of the Resource Advocate and the News Review. After her husband's death she became very active in the Widowed Person's Support Group, where she brought comfort to many other widowed persons.

Mrs. Penney won numerous medals at Senior Olympics events. She was chosen as Greenbelt's Citizen of the Year in 2008; she received the Greenbelt Outstanding Service award for her work on the Senior Advisory Board; and she received a Governor's Citation from Governor O'Malley of Maryland in 2013.

In addition to her Greenbelt activities, Mrs. Penney was instrumental in creating the body of work dedicated to her childhood friend Etty Hillesum. These works detailed the struggles Etty endured in concentration camps during the war through her diaries and letters to Mrs. Penney. She dedicated the Etty Hillesum memorial at the National Holocaust Memorial in Washington, D.C. and was invited back 20 years later as one of the last remaining survivors, where she met President Bill Clinton.

Mrs. Penney was predeceased by her husband Walter in 2000 and son Walt in 2002.

She is survived by her daughter Olga Garber (Jon), of Leesburg, Va., and son Bernard (Julie), of Pittsboro, N.C., 11 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. She was dearly loved and will be greatly missed.

A memorial service and reception will be held at the Greenbelt Fire House Meeting Hall, 125 Crescent Road, on Sunday, August 4 at 4 p.m. Parking is limited at the Fire House; younger attendees are asked to park behind St. Hugh's Catholic Church.

In lieu of flowers, the family suggests donations to the "Leonie Penney YMCA Camp Letts Scholarship Fund." Mrs. Penney attended this camp on the Chesapeake Bay with her family for 50 years and found it to be a very life-enriching experience. The Leonie Penney Scholarship Fund will enable underprivileged children to benefit from this experience. To contribute call the camp directly at 410-919-1400 or mail a check payable to YMCA Camp Letts, noting the memo line "Leonie Penney Scholarship Fund" and send to: YMCA Camp Letts, 4003 Camp Letts Rd., Edgewater, MD, 21037. Secure online payments may be made at www.campletts.org (click on "About Us - Donations - The Leonie Penney Scholarship Fund").

In Memoriam Aren't We Lucky!

Leonie Penney was already in her mid-80s when I got to know her. It was about 10 years ago, after her husband and her elder son had died. She was a leader in the widowed persons support group I'd joined after my own husband's death. Soon I became her assistant in the group and she invited me to join her in her walks around Greenbelt Lake.

Leonie made no concessions to age. She was proud of her medals from the Senior Olympics and, when I met her, was still going to exercise class twice a week. Gradually I heard about all her other activities: the city committees, the work at the News Review, the Mensa meetings, her Dutch club, even "sustainability" groups and book clubs studying "the string theory." She told how she met her husband at the International Students Center in Washington and had such a happy marriage and how she enjoyed raising her children here, with the swim team and the other activities for kids. She truly loved Greenbelt and even encouraged other people to move here. I'd known her for several years before she ever mentioned her early life in Holland during WWII and that her mother and aunt and nine cousins had died in the Holocaust.

Leonie was a very organized person; every meeting and event had to be listed on her calendar. But she always made time for her family whom she loved, scheduling in visits with her children and grandchildren, attending all the graduations and weddings, upholding all the family traditions such as Labor Day at Camp Letts and St. Nicholas day at the Dutch Embassy. Each year she organized a longer family vacation.

To celebrate her 90th birthday, she arranged a trip to Holland for the entire family, 19 persons in all. She became ill on the plane as it left New York, forcing an emergency landing in Newfoundland where her daughter stayed with her at a hospital for two weeks, while the rest of the group proceeded to Holland and enjoyed their vacation. She recovered that time and later that year led the Labor Day parade as Greenbelt's Outstanding Citizen of 2008.

My favorite memory of Leonie, the one I'll keep whenever I think of her, is from our walks around the Lake. As we got to a certain place, in the middle of the dam, she invariably would stop and gaze at the lovely scene, the sky and clouds and trees reflected in the clear water and say, "Isn't it beautiful! Aren't we lucky! Aren't we lucky to live in Greenbelt!" I agree. We were lucky that Leonie arrived in Greenbelt and I am lucky to have been her friend.

The myth of Adam and Eve in the Garden of Eden has been told for millennia. Yet many important details have been overlooked. How can we make sense of the "real" story and what does it tell us about human nature? Were Adam and Eve expelled from paradise or were they set free into a world of wonder and beauty?

In Memoriam

Mike Magrum

Mike Magrum, a Greenbelt boy from his earliest childhood, suffered a cardiac arrest in the hospital after transport there following a fall. He was turning 66 this year, the same as me. Mike had been in bad health for some time with liver problems. He grew up in the North End of Greenbelt and attended St Hugh’s School and Greenbelt Junior High.

Mike was preceded in death by his brother Jim, or “Shorty” as Mike called him, whom I wrote about in this paper. Shorty was best friends with the late Donnie Dorsey so Donnie’s younger brother Leigh soon enough became friends with Mike.

I met Mike through Leigh and we spent some teenage years together. That’s how it is in the Greenbelt family; connect the dots. In those days, Mike and I shared the same “tall and skinny” body type.

Mike was around when Leigh and Kenny Nickolson and I played in my first band during high school. Mike did not play an instrument so he decided he was going to be the band’s manager. In Mike’s mind this consisted of him introducing the band and many of the band’s songs, much to the consternation of the band members, who were anxious to start the music. You see Mike’s mouth did not suffer much from inactivity, which often resulted in some trouble with whoever was within earshot. But we found a way to accommodate Mike, which was another facet of growing up in Greenbelt; a place for everyone. Mike was always supportive of my singing and I appreciated that. (It’s tough to find fans!)

Mike lived his entire life in and around Greenbelt. He was living with his daughter Sarah in Landover most recently. He had two other children with his wife, the former Phyllis Whipp of Landover: Joshua, also of Landover, and Melissa Scott of College Park. Mike loved his kids and his five granddaughters. Two of the girls work at the College Park Diner and Barbara and I see them there and we’re keeping in touch with Mike that way, as well as seeing them at events occasionally. Mike is also survived by an older sister, Janet Mae, with whom he talked regularly despite their wide difference in age.

Mike was a meat cutter for a number of years, just like his brother. He later worked with his friend Stanley Attick for Beltway Plaza management. He was a Vietnam vet and that in and of itself speaks well of his life story. He had some troubles that he brought on himself, perhaps more so than most, but he worked regularly to support himself and his family.

He was a member of the family of Greenbelt kids and shared in the ups and downs, smiles and tears that mark our experiences. He will be missed, especially by his life-long friend John “Pappy” Parker.

The family invites everyone to a memorial service to be held on Saturday, August 3 from 4 to 6 p.m. at J.B. Jenkins Funeral Home, 7474 Landover Road, Landover.

Reel & Meal “Flesh” Film Uncovers Local Slavery

by Aileen Kroll

On the third Monday of the month Greenbelters have a chance to expand their hearts, minds and souls through films shown in the Reel and Meal at the New Deal program of free monthly social justice, environmental and animal rights films that is sponsored at the New Deal Café by Beaverdam Creek Watershed Watch Group, Green Vegan Networking and the Prince George’s County Peace and Justice Coalition.

Co-sponsored by Greenbelt CARES, July’s film was “FLESH: Bought and Sold in the U.S.,” a searing account of sex and labor trafficking across the United States. FLESH exposes a world where girls and women are kidnapped, tortured and enslaved. Through carefully orchestrated displays of deceit and manipulation, girls, averaging 12 to 14 years of age, become the targets of large-scale criminal industrial operation.

Representatives from organizations serving those entrapped by the modern-day slave trade attended the showing and stayed until 10 p.m. providing additional background information and responding to audience queries. Human trafficking and slavery, we learned, exists in Prince George’s County. Greenbelt is not exempt.

Labor Trafficking

Humans trafficked for labor also include domestic workers brought over from abroad, such as nail salon workers, nannies and many in the so-called “massage parlor” sector. Boys also fall victim to enslavement and Jeanne Allert, founder and director of The Samaritan Women, informed us there are no designated shelters for boys in Maryland.

The evening’s facilitators included Allert; Tina Bigdeli, MSW, Maryland Outreach & Direct Services program manager, FAIR Girls; Glenda Bullock-Willis, crisis counselor at Greenbelt CARES; Corporal Robert Lauer, police supervisor/Homeland Security Coordinator for the City of Greenbelt; and Kathryn Maslanka, development associate, Polaris Project.

For more details about how this growing issue impacts our town, county, state and region, visit: www.marylandcoalition.org (“40 Things You Can Do To Prevent/Eliminate Human Slavery”); www.safehouseofhope.org (“Together We Can Change Lives”); www.polarisproject.org (“How Does Your State Rate on Human Trafficking Laws in 2012?”); and www.fleshthemovie.org, which contains information on the movie and what people can do to help.

Most importantly is the advice: “If you see something, say something.” The Human Trafficking hotline number is 888-373-7888. They advise locking the number in your cell phone. Anonymous calls can save lives.

the café’s kitchen. So without Karim and Maria, there probably would be no music today. The idea that Karim and Maria might now be closed out of the business they helped to build before they have paid down their own debt is unconscionable.

We plan to attend the informational meeting at 7 p.m. Monday, August 5 to support Karim and Maria’s continued restaurant management and we hope that everyone else who loves the shawarma, chocolate mousse and shakshouky at the New Deal Café comes out to show their support for Karim and Maria.

Call for French Drains For Our Playgrounds

“Playground Solutions,” Susan Stewart’s poignant letter July 18 regarding the material selected for Greenbelt playgrounds appeared several pages away from two obituaries for former Greenbelters who died from cancer. Most of us know those who live in Greenbelt who have this disease.

Why in the world would anyone who is aware select a product that is even slightly suspect for toxins for the surface of a playground? Anyone who has sat in a waiting room at a tire center knows the rubber smell quite well. Stewart’s experience with this kind of surface at other playgrounds should serve as a wake-up call to pause and consider going natural.

The Chesapeake Bay Foundation frequently warns that impervious surfaces result in runoff, which carries toxins into creeks, streams, rivers and eventually into the Bay and then into those crab cakes we often enjoy. Natural products reduce the risk of producing dangerous toxins and also prevent runoff.

A solution might be to install French drains, which I described in a previous letter, under each piece of equipment. Cover the area under and around the equipment with hardwood mulch. The remainder of the playground could be planted with zoysia grass. Zoysia is a very thick grass which blocks out most weeds. It thrives merely on grass clippings. No weed killer nor fertilizer is ever needed. Water is absorbed into this thick mass and does not result in runoff. It is drought resistant and grows very slowly needing mowing only about every three weeks. Anyone falling onto this grass would not be injured because it is so resilient. The grass lasts forever and never has to be replaced. The two downsides of this grass are that the plugs are more expensive than grass seed and the grass turns brown in the winter.

Hopefully Stewart’s letter will inspire others to take a long look at the elements we bring into our community especially where children play. My daughter and other kids all played on the grassy playground between the 37 Court of Ridge and Eastway, survived without a scratch and were never exposed to dangerous toxins that exist in the surface proposed for these play areas.

This issue deserves a second look at the products that are chosen for these play areas for the sake of the kids and our precious water resources.

defended his position but said he recognizes concerns of some of his colleagues regarding the voting status of the position.

An immediate potential effect would be his requirement to abstain during council consideration of the annual adoption of the city budget including city payments to GATE. He recognizes as well that if council sets a new policy restricting the council representative on the GATE board, both organizations would be affected.

Herling suggested some accommodation instead for the "voting role," its recusal or the appointment of another (non-council) person to serve as city representative on the GATE board.

These potential solutions were supported by GATE President Robert Zugby, including another option: that council exercise its authority to "instruct" its representative regarding that person's participation on the GATE board.

Council Discussion

Council discussion was mixed. Mayor Judith Davis said she had resigned from her longtime participation on the Board of the Greenbelt Intergenerational Volunteer Exchange Service (GIVES) when she realized that GIVES receives "in-kind" benefits from the city for its accommodation within the Greenbelt Community Center. She also suggested that making rooms available for community meetings should be considered insignificant in terms of "benefits" from the city.

Councilmember Emmett Jordan would consider the recusal option and wondered about the application of the new policy for councilmembers' participation on boards of other community associations. His comment led to discussion of such community associations at times receiving in-kind benefits from the city. Jordan also suggested council participation can help such community groups to build organizational skills.

In comments from the audience, Brian Gibbons from Greenbelt West urged that any policy developed employ a clear "bright line" for council behavior subject to such a policy. William Orleans offered an even stronger application of any policy with stronger prohibitions on council participation in any organization and that it should be adopted as an amendment to the city charter. Then he offered a somewhat mixed metaphor describing council fingers in too many pies.

Proposed Policy

Davis suggested a proposed policy statement covering participation by councilmembers within local organizations. The following was an amalgamation in part of the city solicitor's recommended January 15 proposed policy statement and a proposed revision by the mayor:

"City Council members are frequently called upon to join or support organizations which provide valuable services on a volunteer basis in the city. Such organizations sometimes request funds from the city to help support their purposes. Thus, they become partially funded by the city. This can create real or perceived conflicts of interest for council members when they vote on budget matters.
"Council members will not become active (i.e., board member or officer; elected or appointed) members in any organization that solicits or receives city funds in order to prevent potential conflict of interest when council members carry out one of the major duties of their office, which is approving the city budget."

At the worksession, council was not sure whether the proposed new policy statement should thus stand as a policy statement or instead be added to council's standing rules. Staff seemed to recommend inclusion in the standing rules. The proposed policy statement would be considered at a future regular council meeting.

Staff Participation

Also considered during the worksession was similar participation by city staff within local groups and organizations. The discussion on this topic was somewhat informed by a May 13 memo to the city manager from Director of Recreation Julie McHale. The memo was primarily focused on traditional city support given to local groups and organizations and, regarding their funding, primarily to "contribution groups."

For such groups, annual requests for city funding are submitted each year, considered by relevant advisory groups and determined by council as part of the annual budget review process. McHale noted that over the past 20 or more years there have been only a few limited occasions when city staff held positions within contribution groups.

Nevertheless, the city has been sensitive to the practice of allowing city staff to hold leadership positions in contribution groups because of concern that staff could receive enhanced levels of (city) support financially because of their employment with the city.

Dance Theater

In a recent development, Alight Dance Theater, which is currently a "Recognition Group" eligible only for in-kind services from the city (such as for meeting room space), has applied for contribution group status, including financial support. One founding member, current president of the organization, is also a paid non-classified city staff member who provides performing arts programs through the Recreation Department.

McHale recommended that a policy be developed and implemented within the Contribution Group and Recognition Group Policy Guide which would prohibit all employees of the city from holding appointed or elected positions on the governing bodies of all contribution groups. The memo also recognizes the value of services provided by contribution and recognition groups and understands there may be times when recognition groups need funding to meet "one-time" needs and that council has chosen to fund some of such one-time grants to organizations for specific projects. Staff supports that method.

With little discussion, council agreed that such a policy relating to employee participation on boards and committees be drafted by staff. It was not completely clear that such a policy would apply only to classified employees (generally full-time or permanent) or to all employees, including part-time, seasonal or contract employees. Staff indicated a draft policy could be considered at a September council meeting.

Information Items

With greater frequency, an informal policy of the mayor at the beginning of council worksessions to ask her colleagues if they have any "information items" to discuss following the worksession adds to such agendas with little or no notice to the public. Often, audience members and reporters leave the meeting at this point. At this particular worksession, however, the coverage of "info items" blended into the agenda as if they were indeed part of the agenda.

The first item related to proposed possible changes to the city's election process. Although specific items were not noted, the subject of proposed Greenbelt election process changes will be the subject of a council worksession on Wednesday, August 7.

The only discussion by councilmembers present was the "drama" of whether the city's Election Advisory Board should be invited. Apparently, the election board had been made aware of the August 7 council worksession and had wondered if they were invited. It became clear that the election board had been advised of the meeting but had not been invited.

Public Record Policy

Another item was the scheduling of a worksession on the topic of public record policy. The proposed policy will be added to the agenda for a worksession scheduled on Monday, August 5 for the city manager's update and capital projects.

Councilmember Rodney Roberts advised council of his concerns that city staff appeared to be applying pesticide in the Greenbelt Lake Park area. He requested that McLaughlin look into the issue and provide a report to council.

Councilmember Edward Putens suggested it may be time for council to schedule another worksession with representatives of the Greenbelt Post Office.

Davis requested another Pepco update. In response to a question to Moran, council was advised regarding specifics relating to the city's request for funding under the Community Block Grant Development program.

Moran advised that the county had approved Greenbelt's request and will allocate approximately $140,000 for the city's plans for repairs and improvements to the Springhill Lake Recreation Center. Davis asked that consideration be given to improved lighting at the facility.

She also queried whether the new blackout improvement on Westway was permeable material and was assured that it was. Finally she provided a bit of intelligence gathered from recent political gatherings regarding the status of the FBI move and indicated support for the Greenbelt location.

Jordan requested that staff keep council informed of the status of the city's organizational assessment.

Thomas White served on the committee involved in the establishment of GATE; as a member of council, he served as council representative on the GATE Board and is currently vice-president/treasurer of GATE.

program, also operates there without rent, said City Manager Michael McLaughlin in an interview with the Greenbelt News Review, although it has a desk, computer and space in a corner of a room.

At the annual meeting, stakeholders considered a city staff memorandum of understanding (MOU) that suggested terms for GATE’s use of space. It said that GATE could continue on a rent-free basis in exchange for its ongoing provision of an estimated $3,400 in services to the city.

Mayor Judith Davis objected to the MOU’s statement that GATE had access to its space “rent-free.” GATE offers the city in-kind services, not the same thing as getting its studio for free, she said.

Councilmember Emmett Jordan suggested GATE should bill the city for its work. It would be easier if GATE were charged rent, Councilmember Rodney Roberts added.

Zugby pointed out that GATE already provided services to the city and had a close and casual relationship with Greenbelt Municipal Access television. His inclination was to leave the relationship alone because it was working, though he recognized it might be “politically wise” to formalize it, he said.

Davis agreed to Zugby’s request that GATE draft an MOU to submit to council.

Other Items

Council and GATE took a moment of silence at Davis’ request to honor GATE’s former board Vice President Doug Love, who died in April. “Because he’s still here,” Davis said.

“Doug was active almost from the beginning of GATE,” Zugby said. “We do miss Doug.”

Animation instructor George Kochell talked to stakeholders about how GAVA/GATE is celebrating the 15th Anniversary of its animation classes. He estimated that some 430 films have been created since the class’s inception involving some 500 students.

Board member Alan Haley gave a Utopia Film Festival update, heralding a new light show for the event’s 2013 kickoff. “We hope to have something spectacular,” he said.

Haley also discussed a potential conflict between the October festival’s use of the Old Greenbelt Theatre and the venue’s planned renovations.

Bond Grant Funds

Bond money may be at stake, warned Davis, saying Greenbelt got notice from the state that it had to complete construction by 2014 in order to receive state board funds. McLaughlin said the city would brief council on the renovation status at the end of August, but said he did not think there was a problem.

In all, theater renovations will cost between $1.2 and $1.5 million, McLaughlin said. He confirmed the city was facing a 2014 deadline to use Maryland bond grant funds, which constitute $300,000 of the $875,000 the city estimates it has available for the project. But the city could request a deadline extension, McLaughlin said.

Broadcasting Worksessions

Jordan advocated transparency on council and discussed GATE’s potential role in broadcasting council worksessions.

Konrad Herling suggested moving council worksessions to Tuesdays when council’s chambers were free, since that space is already set up for Greenbelt Municipal Access television.

Wooring a potential new FBI headquarters to the city generated discussion at the meeting when Councilmember Edward Putens suggested creating a marketing video about Greenbelt to attract the bureau. In terms of an existing video, “We have nothing,” Putens said. Davis thought such a production could also promote local economic development in general.

GATE Board Member Bill

Cornett, who replaced Love, said he had already started taking aerial and stock shots of Greenbelt for a similar project. GATE Director Malia Murray offered to meet with Cornett and Greenbelt Public Information Coordinator Beverly Palau, who heads up Greenbelt Municipal Access, and said they would report back to council with a plan.

Murray also reported on the progress of GATE’s work to help Greenbelt nonprofit organizations create free public service announcements (PSAs). At least a dozen PSAs for groups and events had been produced so far in 2013, she said.

After the meeting adjourned, Cornett expressed optimism for GATE’s future.

“With the Scarlet (camera) and with the computer equipment we have here, it’s the technical equivalent of a small Hollywood studio,” he said.

sources of specified income and debt. Because of legislation enacted by the Maryland General Assembly in 2010, this form is more detailed than it was in the past and might argue against procrastinating about making a start on the paper work. Although non-incumbents must file this form with their nomination materials, an incumbent candidate who had filed at the required time as a sitting councilmember does not have to file again to run in the election.

In addition, candidates must submit a form designating their appointed treasurer and including in writing that person's acceptance of appointment.

Ballot

As soon as the September 23 filing deadline has passed at 5 p.m., it is possible to establish the ballot. At 7:30 p.m. in the Municipal Building, candidates will draw by lottery for ballot position. In a separate drawing immediately following, they then choose their positions on the election signs posted in selected locations by the city, for which candidates are charged a fee by the city. In doing so, the candidates are voluntarily agreeing to limit their sign postings to these designated locations and to not post campaign signs elsewhere, thereby curtailing sign proliferation. The city's board of elections oversees these drawings, which are open to the public.

Serious Penalties

Candidates must also file three reports of campaign contributions and expenditures. This year the two interim reports are due by noon on Friday, September 27 and Friday, October 25, with the final report due following the election by noon on Friday, November 8. With some items excepted, candidates are required to report the totals of all contributions and expenditures and to itemize those in excess of $25. These reports, maintained in the city clerk's office, are open to public inspection during business hours.

The penalties are severe for not submitting these reports on time or for failure to maintain the appointment of a treasurer. The candidate will be deemed unqualified and the name stricken from the ballot prior to the election. A candidate who falls out of compliance after the election will not be sworn in without having complied. Furthermore, no one who is in violation of a city law or reporting requirement may run as a candidate or submit a nomination petition in a future city election.

Early Voting

The astute candidate, as well as the voter, is advised to be aware of the dates for the onset of early voting, since the days are gone when a candidate could design a campaign to get a message across by Election Day. Early voting is available in two forms in Greenbelt. Any registered voter who prefers not to vote at the polling place may vote by absentee ballot, either by mail or in person at the Municipal Building beginning, Wednesday, October 16 and ending at 6 p.m. on Election Day. Early voting by voting machine will be available to all voters in the Municipal Building at specified times from Monday, October 21 through Friday, November 1.

Weekend voting will be available to all city voters at the Springhill Lake Recreation Center Club House on Saturday and Sunday, October 19 and 20 and in the Schrom Hills Park Community Room on Saturday and Sunday, October 26 and 27.

Voter Registration

For anyone thinking of running for city council, signing a candidate's petition to run or voting in the city election, it is never too early to take care of voter registration. The deadline for registering or for correcting registration information for purposes of the city election is Monday, October 7. Voters can check to see if their registration information is correct on the website of the State Board of Elections at elections.state.md.us; however, the polling places identified there will be incorrect for city elections.

A change since the last city election is that anyone with a Maryland driver's license or Maryland Motor Vehicle Administration ID card can now register to vote or make corrections to registration information online at the State Board of Elections website. For those who prefer paper, forms can be printed from the state website and returned by mail. Forms are also available at the Greenbelt branch of the public library, from the city clerk's office or from the Prince George's County Board of Elections at 301-430-8020. Forms must be received by the county by the October 7 deadline.

For more information on Greenbelt elections, call 301-474-8000 or check the city's website at www.greenbeltnmd.gov.
